3rd grade students have been working diligently with Mrs. Wood researching cow milking robots. Last week Bellevue HS student, Cameron Hingtgen visited the class to share information about their family dairy farm that uses robots to milk cows. Cameron shared a variety of information with the students to extend their learning. It is always great to see our high school students interacting with our elementary students, and sharing their perspectives.

5th Grade and School of the Wild

5th grade students worked with Jen Meyer from the Jackson County Conservation Office last week in preparation for School of the Wild that will take place next week. During this outstanding learning experience, students will be at Bellevue State Park and various other outdoor locations expanding their learning beyond the classroom walls in nature. Below they were learning about “pill bugs” that exist in many outdoor locations.
